SCHEDULE OF INFORMATION

Who we are and what we do

Darwin College is a college within the University of Cambridge with the power, subject to the Statutes of the University, to present candidates for matriculation by the University. It was founded in 1964 as the University’s first graduate-only College and the first College to admit both men and women. The College was granted a Royal Charter in 1976 and it is a Registered Charity (number 1141105). The College was founded without any religious affiliation, and it is situated in central Cambridge.

Darwin College is one of the larger Cambridge Colleges. It has 70 Fellows who hold faculty or research positions in the University and associated institutes, and about 650 students who come from the UK and some 70 other countries. Students study for PhDs and Masters Degrees in a wide range of disciplines. Darwin College fosters an informal and egalitarian atmosphere for this multi-disciplinary, international community. Students and Fellows meet and talk at academic gatherings and seminars, over meals and at social and sporting events. Students and Fellows are not segregated (there is no High Table) and students are members of many of the College’s governing committees. The College has since 1986 organised the annual Darwin College Lecture Series, a major event with eminent speakers giving public lectures every week of the Lent Term. The College community extends to over 7,500 alumni throughout the world.

How the institution is organised

The College is governed by consensus and consultation. Its pattern of governance is laid down in its Statutes and Ordinances. The Statutes provide for the constitution and governance of the College, the duties and election to office of the Master, the election and admission to fellowships; the appointment and the duties of College officers. The Ordinances set out the procedures for appointment of officers and election of fellows as well as procedures for other college business. Authority is devolved among several College officers (Vice-Master, Bursar, Dean, Domestic Bursar, College Secretary) and decision making is conducted through a number of committees.

The Master is the head of the College, elected by the Fellowship, and chairs the major College committees.

The Governing Body consists of the Master and the Fellows, except Emeritus and Honorary Fellows. The Governing Body is the main authority of the College and has power to amend statutes (with the agreement of the University and the Privy Council) and to make ordinances.
The College Council is the main operating committee of the College and meets twice termly. Its ex-officio members are the Master, Vice Master, Dean, Bursar, and Student Association President, with 4 other Fellows, elected to serve 3 years each, and 2 further students, elected annually by the student body.

The Visitor is an appointment made by Royal Charter to ensure that on the rare occasion when the College is unable to determine an issue, it can seek a disinterested opinion. The Visitor is the Lord Chief Justice of England.
